Thank you for choosing The Sandra Parks School of Etiquette. We make learning fun for our students and understand that sometimes classes must be rescheduled due to unexpected circumstances.

We will make every attempt to be flexible with arranging classes to suit your needs and our schedules.

The $ _____ Student Course Fee includes a $ _____ nonrefundable registration fee & entitles the student to all course materials and handouts. Complete cancellation of a course must be done within 24 hours after the first class and all materials/books received must be surrendered promptly before a refund will be given. We provide the types of foods necessary for practicing the dining skills taught. The foods are for practice/demonstration purposes only and students are never obligated to eat anything. Students may make requests, however, this is not a restaurant or catering service and each individual class has budgetary limitations. Over the years students have enjoyed practicing with donuts, cereal, rolls, sorbet and more. If at any time a parent wishes for the student to not eat the foods served, instructions and handouts will still be given. In this manner the student receives the full benefits of the dining skills portions of the class. Books and handouts may not be reproduced and classes may not be videotaped /photographed or recorded by any means without the express written permission of Sandra Parks and The Sandra Parks School of Etiquette.

I have read, understand and agree to all terms stated above
